WELCOME MESSAGE FROM DEAN de NOBLE

All students, faculty and staff,

Welcome back to Seaton Hall, to the fall semester and to the 2014-15 academic year. I extend a special welcome to those making Seaton Hall their academic home for the first time.

I hope everyone had an enjoyable and fruitful summer. As we begin the academic year I hope everyone will consider the following in insuring a safe, successful and enriching fall and spring at Seaton hall.

First, please work to maintain a professional environment in Seaton Hall and on campus. If each of us works to be not only unselfish, but selfless in our actions, we can accomplish much more individually and collectively in advancing the reputation of APDesign than if we act otherwise. As design professionals, it is important that our behavior reflects our commitment to social equity. As I have said on numerous occasions, our programs are only as good as our least capable graduate. Be unselfish in helping others by sharing your knowledge and passion in working with them to overcome their stumbling blocks. Take it from me and all of our alumni, you will look back on these days longingly so do your utmost to enjoy them now! The camaraderie of this experience is not easily duplicated.

Second, work securely. Do your part to insure the safety of your colleagues by keeping a watchful eye on belongings, keeping studio doors locked, not working or walking home alone, and making sure to abide by the limited access to Seaton afterhours and on weekends. (The front-center doors (on basement and first-floor levels) of Seaton and the east and west doors of Seaton Court will remain unlocked at all times.) Please report any suspicious activity to the K-State police immediately. And smile, you are on camera in our hallways!

Finally, dedicate yourself to your work knowing that your individual and collaborative accomplishments accumulate into an impressive dossier representing APDesign. Our collective accomplishments and reputation undergird our message to our supporters in the legislature and alumni base. Continuing our momentum is important and actually dependent on a simple formula. Strive for excellence. Make beautiful things, artifacts of design that cause others to marvel in awe of our capacities. Push your research into new levels of inquiry. Be inventive. Advocate. Tell everyone who will listen about the great things we are doing.

This is a great place to learn, teach and serve. Our world is abuzz with all you have accomplished in the past few years, adding to our long history of excellence. This year marks an important transition as we go from dreaming of a facility commensurate with our national reputation to designing said facility and preparing for the disruptions of construction. It should make for an even more exciting year than normal!

Wishing you all the best,

Tim de Noble, Dean

ALL COLLEGE FORUM

ALL COLLEGE FORUM - With the start of school upon us once again, you're invited to attend the All College Forum to get back in the loop for all things APDesign.

Dean de Noble will address the students in the K-State Union Forum Hall Monday, Aug. 25 at 3:30 p.m. The Dean will recap the faculty achievements; discuss new technology and upcoming events for the college. Bring your planner and a pen and be sure to take note of all the important things you won't want to miss this semester.

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

The first day of school can be exhausting for some, but we're here to help. To celebrate your return to campus, we've bought you donuts! (Sugar Rush!) Come to the Peirce Commons any time after 7:30 a.m. and enjoy the free food!
