arch_weekly note

Our faculty and students made a great showing last week at the Kansas AIA convention as you will see below. Congrats to all. This week is going to end with a bang, as we have the APDesign Golf Tournament on Friday followed by Architecture Evening at 7 PM at the Alumni Center. I hope to see all of our students there, as you can hang out with your faculty over tasty treats and beverages.

See you there.

Matthew Knox AIA
Professor and Department Head

arch_asab

The Architecture Student Advisory Board (ASAB) is looking for applications from second year students in the department of architecture who would like to be involved in the college as leaders of their class!

As a member of ASAB, you would act as a representative of your class and directly communicate with the Department Head in an effort to increase communication and promote an effective, high-quality academic culture. The ASAB identifies and resolves student-faculty issues, increases awareness of professional development opportunities for students, and disperses administrative information to students.

If you are interested in this opportunity, email Kari Lindeen (klindeen@ksu.edu). Please include:

1. why you would like to be on the board
2. what your interests are
3. what you have to contribute to the team

arch_studio

Nathan Howe's fifth year architecture studio began the semester by asking themselves, What are the challenges students and faculty face at APD West and how can we solve them?

Their studio explored different ways to improve APD West. Not having a place to rest or lounge was seen as a disadvantage to the space.

They designed and fabricated a parametric seating element called SPINE (Studio Parametric Integrated Network Element).

The complex design of SPINE is constructed out of only two main materials, electrical metal tubing (aka conduit) and outdoor fabric, as well as nuts and bolts.

Their project will be unveiled near the main entry of APD West on Monday, September 28th.

To learn more about the process and fabrication of SPINE, as well as Nathan Howe's fifth year studio, visit their website: <http://parametricallydriven.wordpress.com>
