Charles McKinney "Buildings as Landscape"

Charles McKinney; Previously, as Chief of Design at New York City Parks, he more than doubled the production of the design program. More innovative park buildings and landscapes, were created under his direction than under any of his predecessors or successors.

As the former Principal Urban Designer for NYC Parks, Charles led the preparation of major park master plans including Northern Manhattan, VanCortlandt and Riverside Parks. Under his direction, the Department explored responses to the design imperatives of the 21st century; web based planning tools and communication, as well as the role of planning in creating community.

These accomplishments earned him honorary membership from both the American Institute of Architects and the American Society of Landscape Architects. He is Co-Chair of City as Living Laboratory founded by artist Mary Miss, the organization pairs artists and scientists to make environmental issues visceral.
