GRADUATE SCHOOL NEWS

Dear College Liaisons,

I appreciate your assistance with promoting the Spring 2016 Graduate Student Leadership Development Program to graduate students in your college.

The Staley School of Leadership Studies and the Kansas Leadership Center have created a semester-long program specifically for graduate students who want to move beyond technical expertise and develop their leadership skills to make positive change in their work, studies, and student organizations. Program participants will

- attend three workshops with Leadership Studies faculty
- learn from and support their peers in three monthly peer consultation meetings
- and receive guidance from professional leadership coaches in three monthly telephone coaching sessions.

In Spring 2015, this program was piloted with graduate students in the College of Engineering. The program was well received by the engineering students, and based on their recommendations, this year's program is being offered to graduate students in all disciplines.

Graduate students who have had no leadership experience to those who have filled numerous leadership roles, to everyone in between is welcome to apply for this program. If selected to participate, students must be available to participate in all program activities.

Visit the GSLDP webpage for more information and to apply for the program.

Application deadline is January 22, 2016 at noon.

Questions may be directed to Megan Miller, Graduate School Project Coordinator of Student Services, mmmiller@ksu.edu, 532-6191.

The College of Architecture, Planning and Design offers a number of scholarships to students each year. All scholarships consider academic performance and some require financial need as a basis for consideration in addition to academic performance and other considerations. Students with a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or better are strongly encouraged to apply. Last year over 170 students in the College received some form of scholarship support.
